YWCA satellite office, youth center open at Multi Agency

Programs for serious issues and light-hearted fun were unveiled Monday at the Hoopeston Multi Agency.

A ribbon-cutting ceremony marked the start of the organization's youth center, as well as a satellite office for the Danville YWCA's Sexual Assault Crisis Services program.

The satellite office will offer counseling, legal and education services, as well as medical advocacy, for unplanned pregnancies, drug abuse, sexual assault and child abuse, said Ronald Eltzeroth, program director in Danville.

The program is aimed at youngsters from pre-school through high school and will focus on Hoopeston's migrant population, Eltzeroth said.

Angie Hampton, a YWCA staff member, will provide services in the Hoopeston office. Hours there will be 7:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Monday and Wednesday and 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday or by calling (217) 283-4006.

Hampton will also be available on-call through the YWCA hotline, (217) 443-5566.

Both the local office and the hotline are prepared to take calls in Spanish, Hampton said. An answering machine at the satellite office has messages in both English and Spanish, she added.

The office fulfills a dream for Eltzeroth, who has directed the YWCA program for two years. "When I came (to the program), I saw this was a very under-served area," he said. "People could always call the hotline, but that would take some time and if you're in crisis, you don't wait until tomorrow."

Funding was provided through a grant from the Illinois Coalition Against Sexual Assault. The YWCA only received money for one year, Eltzeroth said. "I don't know about next year, but this year, there will be services."

In the background of Eltzeroth's comments, the ping, ping, ping of an air hockey puck provided a lighter note as more than 20 youngsters took advantage of the youth center.

The center includes pool, ping-pong and air hockey tables, as well as computers, television and reading area.

Volunteers are still needed for the youth center, said Chalmers Flint, Multi Agency executive director. Flint hopes area organizations will donate time to oversee activities there. To volunteer, call
